TODO: To do!

0.20 [Bonus!] Flying Things

Figure 54: A gossip stone mentions this. I don't think you get anything, but I did this over the Lumpy Pumpkin.

0.21 [Bonus!] Scary Cart

Figure 55: In Lanayru Desert, there are two cart games: the “Heart-Stopping” one gives a piece of heart (and was actually my last thing to do on this list; I hunted FOREVER for it) and a “Scary” one that just gives a silver rupee.

0.22 [Bonus!] One-Time Gems

TODO: There are a lot more of these; keep track!

TODO: Forgot the one from going to the water dragon where you push the exploding fish into the big rock.

Figure 56: In the Ancient Cistern, there's a big giant in the middle. I'm pretty sure you have to snatch this from its hand in order to advance the temple, but it's still cool.

Figure 57: This one's the same as before, but much harder to see!

Figure 58: In Lanayru Desert, just as you enter the Sand Sea there are two silver rupees on top the big statue's head. They are “out of bounds”, so the beetle starts flashing immediately. It was really tough to get these!

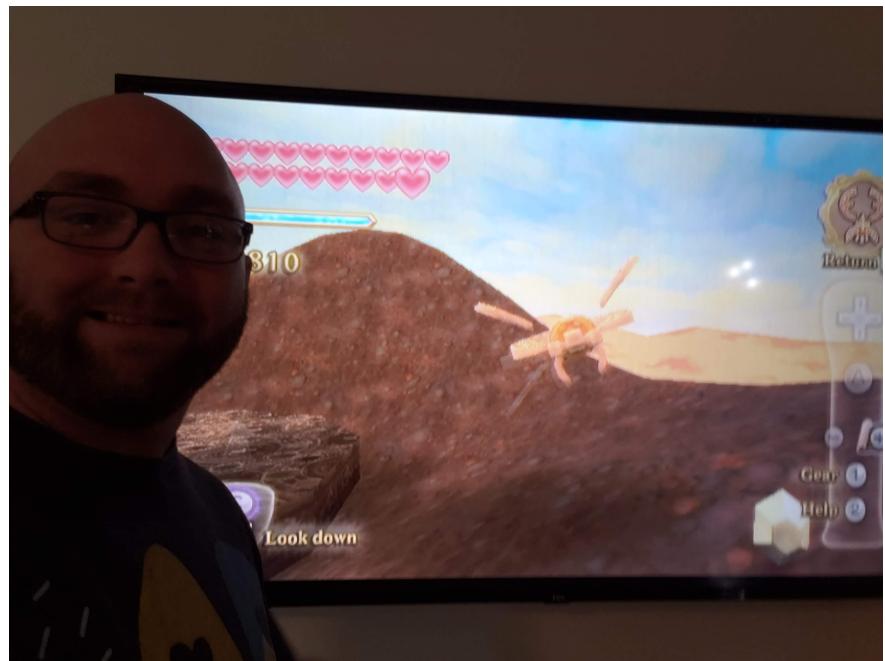

Figure 59: I should mention that I didn't find these all on my own. I was looking for the last heart piece and I had my dowsing set to rupees (since I was looking for a crack in the wall). Still tough!

Figure 60: At the Pirate Fortress, bats look like they form hair in the shark ship's nose. If you explore the nose, you'll find 3 silver rupees. Note that I accidentally collected two before I snapped the picture—there really were three!

Figure 61: After you get the Clawshot, you can find a Goddess Cube at Floria Waterfall. If you also use the Beetle to find this big gem! This is the only gold rupee outside of a treasure chest that I know of in this game.

0.23 [Bonus!] Heart in Hero Mode

Figure 62: Definitely a feature and not a bug, I thought it was funny. It took me by surprise that about halfway into the game, I got a heart in Hero Mode from a Goddess Wall. The game hits me with the “acquire item” prompt, which I thought was neat-o.

0.24 Review

- The fights were too easy and underwhelming. No preparation or thought really required.
- The games really were fun. I think the falling ring clown game was the most fun, or the pumpkin toss one.
- The silent realm stuff wasn't that fun until it was timed. Then it was way more fun.
- Everyone complains about the fetch quests, but they weren't too bad. I just wish the quests had more story like in Majora's Mask. The personal plots lead nowhere! Like that one dude's mom who paid me to clean her house. Explore their relationship.
- Item upgrades were fun. It didn't feel like I was playing with gimped items which had to be upgraded in order to be fun.

1. Groose is the ancestor of Gannondorf and all of the Gerudos.
 - Takes an interest in Impa in both forms (young and old).
 - If you match Groose's hair with Impa's skin you sort of get a Gerudo.
 - Lots of "triforce imagery" between Zelda, Link, and Groose.
 - Triforce of power was never explicitly stated TODO: make sure this is true!
2. In OoT, Twinrova gets a halo. They didn't go to heaven; Demise gets the same halo effect in the third sealing fight!
 - This would imply Twinrova didn't die, but rose through a hole in the ceiling.
 - It makes sense they would show up in Majora's Mask.
3. Your red loftwing reincarnates as Epona (I think this is obvious and actually intended by the devs, but I'm forbidden from looking anything up!).
4. Other incarnations: Zelda's father as OoT Sage of Light; Pipit as Mido; Beetle as Beetle in Windwaker; I'm sure there are more.
5. The big octopus (Tantalus) only attacks when you're going after Nauru's Flame. It doesn't attack in the timeline otherwise; the ship survives with the baddies undamaged. Did it control the robot pirate and its crew? Fi says there's an "evil presence", so we can't assume it was just protecting Nauru's Flame from anyone.
6. Fi disobeys your command at least once: when you're trying to get the water basin from Faron to quench the frog at the entrance of the Fire Temple, Fi says you need the robot that hauls things. When you select "No, not that guy...", Fi disobeys and calls him anyway, saying you're being too picky.
7. Lanayru (the dragon):
 - Sick a long time ago: from the first war? from Demise?)
 - Chained up after he died? That's weird.
 - Can never truly die? If you talk to his skull before you heal him his eyes glow
